NAME THAT FLOAT! 2016 SIERRA MADRE ROSE FLOAT DESIGN CHOSEN

The Sierra Madre Rose Float Association announced this week that they had selected the design fo the 2016 Rose Parade entry. However, it does not have a name,

The design, left, created by Richard Burrows has been approved by the TOR. It also conincides with the overall tournament theme, "Find Your Adventure".

According to the Tournament of Roses, "Find Your Adventure is a theme that has grown out of a unique partnership between the Pasadena Tournament of Roses and the U.S. National Park Service. The 2016 Rose Parade will help shine light on the centennial celebration of our nation's national parks."

If you have a suggestion for a name, please post your entry of their Facebook page. (https://www.facebook. com/groups/29356432318)lso,

The Association just finished celebrating their 9th victory in the last 10 years for the float "I Think I Can", the little train that could and did.

Earlier this year, the 2015 entry was asked to make it's final resting place in Arizona at a facility that helps children. The train left Sierra Madre in January to bring a little joy to children in need.

Don't let these 'wild' and 'crazy' Flamingo's remain nameless. Put your thining cap on! Who knows, your entry may be the name for the 10th winning entry in 11 years for SMRFA!

WISTARIA FESTIVAL SHUTTLE TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE!

Shuttle tickets to ride up to view the Wistaria Vine at the annual Wistaria Festival are still available for purchase! The 2015Wistaria Festival will take place next Sunday, March 15th, 2015.

The Festival features tours of the world's largest blossoming plant, certified by the Guinness Book of World Records. Each year, the property owners upon whose land the vine sits open their homes to allow thousands to view the vine. Dozens of Sierra Madre residents volunteer to act as docents at the property, telling the story of the vine, which was originally planted from a 1-gallon pot that was purchased for $0.75 in 1894. In addition to the tours of the vine, the two main downtown streets of Sierra Madre are closed to traffic so that crafters and artists can set up booths to display and sell their wares. This year we have added a free Vintage Car Show to the festivities. Downtown village shops are open, and musical acts perform at multiple outdoor venues. Memorial Park is transformed into a combination Kids/Food zone and a hub of information about local non profits.

The shuttle to the vine from downtown avoids a long uphill walk from downtown to the neighborhood in which the vine sits. Tickets for the shuttle are $15 for adults. Seniors (over 65) and children (6 to 16) receive a discounted rate of $7. Children under five ride for free. Families of 6 or more can ride the shuttle of $30. (No more than 2 adults).

You can purchase tickets on the chambers website, www.sierramadrechamber. com or by stopping by Savor The Flavor, Beantown or The Bottle Shop. Additional information on the festival can be found on page 4 of this paper.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"My name is Brandon and I began Humans of New York in the summer of 2010. I thought it would be really cool to create an exhaustive catalogue of New York City's inhabitants, so I set out to photograph 10,000 New Yorkers...." Brandon Stanton

If you've never heard of Brandon Stanton or "Humans of New York," you need to take a look at this site. Our daughter, Leah, turned us on to Brandon Stanton and what happened when he interviewed a young man, 🕒 🦠 13 year old Vidal Chastenet, on the streets of Brooklyn and asked him who the person who had most influenced his life was, and he responded that it was his school principal, Ms. Nadia L. Lopez, of Mott Hall Bridges Academy in Brownsville, Brooklyn.

Brandon Stanton continues: plot their photos on a map. I worked for several months with this goal in mind, but somewhere along the way, HONY began to take on a much different character. I started collecting quotes and short stories from the people I met, and began including these snippets alongside the photographs. Taken together, these portraits and captions became the subject of a vibrant blog. With over eight million followers on social media, HONY now provides a worldwide audience with daily glimpses into the lives of strangers in New York City. It has also become a #1 NYT bestselling book."

What happened after he interviewed Vidal Chastenet is beyond amazing. Vidal talked about Ms. Lopez and how she made the students in her charge feel that they mattered, that their lives were important, that they could have a future. Ms. Lopez longed to take these underprivileged kids from this very tough neighborhood on a field trip to Harvard, to show them where they could go if they could dream big enough. $100,000 was the goal Ms. Lopez needed to raise and after Vidal talked to Brandon Stanton about his hero, Ms. Lopez, and Brandon posted the interview on his blog, which was picked up world-wide, over a million dollars were raised. Ms. Lopez, Vidal and Brandon appeared on the Ellen DeGeneres Show and lives were changed. You can see the YouTube video of Ellen and Ms. Lopez, Vidal and Brandon and I guarantee you, it will make you realize, once again, that teachers are, frequently, the most important people in our lives.

Having said that, I'm hoping that one teacher pops into your mind. For School, who told me I had a gift for writing And then there was Ms. Bessie Quinn, who tried with all her might to get me through 9th grade Algebra. Ms. Quinn tutored me after school day after day and finally got me out of Algebra with a "D." A mercy grade if there ever was one. Then there was Ms. Sowards, my biology teacher at So. Pas. High, who frequently brought her two poodles to class with her. One of the requirements at that time was that students draw the things they saw through microscopes. I have no talent at all in art and was a disaster at this. She knew I tried. I successfully dissected the earthworm, the grasshopper, all the way through the guinea pig and did my best. She turned a blind eye to the fact that my friend, John Forsha, drew all the drawings for my homework. She knew it perfectly well and passed me. These people changed my life! Being of the word-y persuasion, I got all A's and B's in English, History, anything that involved reading and writing.

Like you, we happen to be friends with or related to teachers. These are amazing people, who love the children in their classes, pray for them, take extra time with them, and use their own resources to provide the supplies some kids just simply don't have. So why am I going on and on about teachers? It's simply because we have an election coming up on Tuesday, March 10th, for district specific representative for the newly created District 6 of the Pasadena Unified School District Board, for which residents have waited two years to vote on representation. This district encompasses all of Sierra Madre to a boundary which in some parts goes as far as Duarte Road.

Ok, a lot of you don't have kids in school anymore and your grandkids live someplace else, like Texas, where two of ours are in school. BUT, that doesn't mean you don't have to vote. You do! You really do!! Read up! Find out! Make an educated decision! Read Susan Henderson's excellent editorial on Page 4 of last week's Mountain Views News! And vote for the person you think can best represent Sierra Madre. Your vote matters. It

"THE SCHOOL OF ROCK"

"The School of Rock" is a musical event scheduled for March 7, 8:30 p.m. at the Peppertree Grill Restaurant in Sierra Madre. The program features two rock bands whose members are teachers, ZKB and The Real Jane. There is no cover charge for the event, but attendees are encouraged to enjoy food and drink of the most

This event, not to be confused with the movie, is affectionately referred to as "The School of Rock". The Peppertree Grill is located at 322 W. Sierra Madre Blvd in Sierra Madre. Their phone number is (626) 355-8444. Reservations are recommended.

The ZKB band (we have no idea what that means) consists of patient Mr. P. who teaches Special Education. He speaks softly and never, ever raises his voice as he keeps careful watch over the safety and well-being of his students. He and three other colleagues practice in Mr. P's garage, where they kick and scream, yell and make noise. Oh, they also plug in electric guitars, bang drums, and set up microphones. These teachers are rock musicians who are mysterious, enigmatic, frightening and fabulous. And they are really, really noisy. They are very good at what they do. Rock music, that is. The teaching part, well, they definitely rock at that

The Real Jane is Sierra Madre's very own Jane Fuller and band. Fuller, a 26-year teaching veteran, smiles in spite of the challenges of teaching a second and third grade combination class this year. She joyfully commits her whole heart and mind to her students' learning needs.

Even after teaching for over two decades, Fuller still loves it. She practices her music in the quiet downstairs chamber of her house. In the room boasting of thick drywall, lots of insulation and soundboard, Fuller and three mildmannered teachers join her for their musical workouts. They plug in electric guitars, set up microphones and let their real selves come out!

These veteran educators, after many years in the classroom, have found a way to relieve stress, and ease tension. And, in a socially acceptable and creative way, they give a rebel yell to voice their deep frustration, excitement, enthusiasm, and angst.

Join them all for the March 7 "School of Rock" event at the Peppertree.

Officers noticed the emitting smell of marijuana coming from the vehicle and questioned the young driver, who denied having any within the vehicle. Relieving there was marijuana within the vehicle Officers requested the occupants to exit the vehicle, and while the passenger occupants complied, the driver refused on several requests and was assisted out of the vehicle by Officers and placed in handcuffs for safety. While searching the vehicle, Officers discovered a backpack that contained an open bottle of alcohol that was partially consumed. The owner of the backpack was a passenger who identified himself with his high school ID. Man with Replica Assault Rifle Arrested

Pasadena Police Officers responded Sunday to the public Archery Range, 400 block south Arroyo Blvd, regarding a citizen's call of a male armed with a semiautomatic rifle and firing indiscriminately. The gun later turned out to be an airsoft assault rifle replica.

Officers arrived, formulated a tactical plan, and gathered information from citizens. Officers observed the suspect, Pasadena resident Bradley Cutler standing near the bridge and armed with what appeared to be an AR-15 rifle. Officers ordered suspect Cutler to drop the rifle. Cutler was detained without officers needing to use force. Upon further examination officers determined the rifle was an air-soft assault rifle replica.

Cutler also possessed an illegal dirk/dagger. He was arrested and booked for the weapons violation with a $20,000.00; Suspect Cutler was later transferred to the Los Angeles County Jail due to a pre-existing medical issue.

This incident was the second encounter Pasadena police officers had with an armed suspect in 24 hours. On February 28, at about 11:00 p.m., Special Enforcement Officers Section patrolling the area of El Molino and Mountain when they observed a known gang member acting suspiciously. The officers attempted to contact the gang member who immediately ran away attempting to evade them. After a brief foot pursuit, the suspect was taken into custody without incident. Officers retraced the suspect's path and recovered a loaded handgun.

"In both incidents the involved officers exceptional tactics and judgment to bring closure without lethal force. Their actions were courageous and prudent," stated Pasadena Police Chief Phillip Sanchez.

City to Take Stance on SR710 Extension

By Dean Lee

The city council agreed Monday night to take an official position -in opposition to a tunnel— on the extension of the 710 Freeway from Alhambra to Pasadena although only Councilmember Steve Madison said the city should flat-out oppose all options for it.

However people need to get to the right place on this issue, for some people around the dais, it would involve changing their positions," Madison said. "I would be derelict if I didn't say; we don't need an EIR to tell us that this tunnel would be a

He added, "What we are for right now is the freeway."

Madison had requested Mayor Bill Bogaard place the discussion came in anticipation of The Los sufficient information to which

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show FOCUS REVIEW

Will Smith's past few movies have not been that great. He has not only chosen weak projects but also given bad performances. With mediocre talent in front of and behind the camera, my expectations for 'Focus' were very low.

An old pro in the con game, Nicky (Will Smith) is approached by a newcomer, the mysterious and talented Jess (Margot Robbie); however, when Nicky abandons her, she must learn to survive on her own. When their paths cross again years later, she becomes an unexpected variable in Nicky's last, and most ambitious, con.

'Focus' is an interesting movie. It is by no means one of the best movies I have ever seen, yet, at the same time, I will not be forgetting it anytime soon. For what it is, 'Focus' proved to be far better than expected, with the standout being the chemistry between Smith and Robbie. Together, they dominate the screen and provide a slight comeback for Smith, who will hopefully be acting like he does in this movie in all of his future projects.

COPPOLA

Francis Ford Coppola's love for wine didn't just didn't happen overnight. His grandfather, Agostino Coppola, had a passion for wine back in the 1920s, when he used to make wine in the basement of his New York apartment. Francis purchased his own vineyard in Rutherford, California in 1975 using the proceeds from his movie "The Godfather". This plot was a part of the historic Inglenook Winery. After tireless effort by the whole family, the winery produced its first vintage in 1977 under the Niebaum-Coppola label. After many years of success, the family purchased the Inglenook Winery in its entirety in 1995. Almost twenty years later Coppola is producing more than 1,000,000 cases a

The grapes are sourced from a select few wineries near the Russian River Valley. The winemaker, Corey Beck, mentioned a hint of seaweed taste. While that's a good thing when discussing Pinots, I felt that it was more of a cherry aftertaste. Either way you will be pleased with the quality and the

INGREDIENTS

2 quarts water 1 cup kosher salt

1/2 cup brown sugar

2 tablespoons saltpeter

1 cinnamon stick, broken into several pieces

1 teaspoon mustard seeds

1 teaspoon black peppercorns

8 whole cloves

8 whole allspice berries

12 whole juniper berries 2 bay leaves, crumbled

1/2 teaspoon ground ginger 2 pounds ice

1 (4 to 5 pound) beef brisket, trimmed

1 small onion, quartered

1 large carrot, coarsely chopped

1 stalk celery, coarsely chopped

DIRECTIONS

Place the water into a large 6 to 8 quart stockpot along with salt, sugar, saltpeter, cinnamon stick, mustard seeds, peppercorns, cloves, allspice, juniper berries, bay leaves and ginger. Cook over high heat until the salt and sugar have dissolved. Remove from the heat and add the ice. Stir until the ice has melted. If necessary, place the brine into the refrigerator until it reaches a temperature of 45 degrees F. Once it has cooled, place the brisket in a 2-gallon zip top bag and add the brine. Seal and lay flat inside a container, cover and place in the refrigerator for 10 days. Check daily to make sure the beef is completely submerged and stir the brine.

After 10 days, remove from the brine and rinse well under cool water. Place the brisket into a pot just large enough to hold the meat, add the onion, carrot and celery and cover with water by 1-inch. Set over high heat and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to low, cover and gently simmer for 2 1/2 to 3 hours or until the meat is fork tender. Remove from the pot and thinly slice across the grain.

HEALTHY LIFESTYLES

THE JOY OF YOGA PRACTICE TIPS

tips may be helpful to those new and of yoga. First things first! Plan for class; treat it as an appointment that should not be missed. Try to arrive on time, and grab a few props as you lay your mat out. Second, prepare to let the teacher be your guide. Last, make sure you've chosen the class that's right for you that day. Here's a brief guide on choosing a class:

Gentle: This class is designed to help those who may have limited mobility and need movement without undue pressure on the joints. The pace is careful and slower. It's perfect for someone recovering from an injury (but doctor released for activity). Also appropriate for expectant mothers or for those brand new to yoga. Many of the yogis attending Gentle are not new to yoga, so you may receive the benefits of their experience and the teacher may introduce varying practices for the class including pranayama techniques and energetic practices.

Beginning: This class is right for a brand new yoga student who has no significant trouble spots in the Namaste, body. The pace of the class is slower, with much of Keely Totten

It occurred to me the alignment of the poses explained in greater detail. that few practice Poses in this class may be challenging. Expectant mothers can also take this class. Many attendees of the Beginning level classes have been doing yoga for a seasoned students while and appreciate the pace, challenge of poses, and relaxation techniques implored.

Mixed Level or Vinyasa Flow: More advanced yoga poses and pranayama are introduced to build on our foundation laid at the Beginning level. This class is right for the practitioner who has been practicing a while and is ready to expand their practice. At a minimum, one should have attended a few Beginning classes before attending Mixed Level or Vinyasa Flow. Seasoned practitioners who attend while expecting or recovering from injury have a knowledge of their body and know how to adjust their practice.

Restorative: This class is for everyone, beginner to advanced. Many props are used and poses are held in a deeper, supportive way. This class is a compliment to a more active or fast-paced practice during week. The challenge in this class, is the challenge to slow down. Many yogis love this class as it restores the body and gets them ready for the week.

Cheers to the enjoyment of your next class!

apart so that hopefully they can be removed by the kidneys. In some cases the toxins can't be broken down and can even become more toxic. The phase 2 process repackages the parts of the toxins so they are neutralized and can be taken out of the body through the urine. If phase 2 is sluggish, we run the risk of building up toxins in the liver.

The best advice is avoid exposure to toxins in the first place. Here are some simple ways to reduce your toxin exposure and to eliminate the toxins that you do

HOW MEDICARE COVERS IN-HOME CARE

How does Medicare cover home health care? Because of my illness, my doctor suggested I get home health care, but I want to find out how it's covered before I proceed.

Need Some Help

Dear Need,

Medicare actually covers up to 28 hours a week for plan and are within the plan's network of providers. in-home health care to beneficiaries, if you meet their specific requirements. Here's how it works.

In order for you to secure coverage for home health care, Medicare first requires that you be homebound. This means that it must be extremely difficult for you to leave your home, and you need help from a device (like $\;\;$ Other Options a wheelchair or walker) or a person in doing so.

You will then need your doctor to approve a "plan of care" confirming that you need skilled-nursing care or skilled-therapy services from a physical or speech therapist on a part-time basis. Your doctor can also request the services of an occupational therapist and a home health aide to assist with activities of daily living (ADLs), such as bathing, dressing and using the bathroom. Your doctor must renew the "plan of care" once every 60 days.

You will also need to use a home health agency that is certified by Medicare.

If you meet all of the requirements, Medicare should pay for your in-home care.

But, be aware that Medicare will not pay for home Veterans Assistance: If you're a veteran, some health aide services (such as bathing, dressing or using the bathroom) alone, if you do not need skilled-nursing or skilled-therapy services too. Homemaker services, such as shopping, meal preparation and cleaning are not covered either.

You also need to know that Medicare has recently changed their home health care policy regarding degenerative diseases. They will now pay for in-home physical therapy, nursing care and other services to beneficiaries with chronic conditions like multiple sclerosis, Parkinson's or Alzheimer's disease in order to maintain their condition and prevent deterioration. services if the patient were expected to make a full recovery.

If you have original Medicare, you can locate 800-827-1000. a Medicare-certified home health agency by and ask which home health agencies work with the author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

For more detailed information on how Medicare covers in-home health, see the "Medicare and Home

If you don't qualify for Medicare coverage, there are other coverage options depending on your situation,

Insurance: If you happen to have long-term care insurance, check to see if it covers in-home care. Or if you have a life insurance policy, see if it can be utilized to pay for care.

Medicaid: If your income is low enough, all states offer Medicaid programs that will pay for some forms of in-home care. To investigate this, contact your local Medicaid office.

communities have a Veteran-Directed Home and Community Based Service program, which give veterans a flexible budget to pay for in-home care.

administration for its help in Operation Protective presented compelling reasons why the U.S. should not enter into a deal with Iran that would allow it repeatedly and publicly vowed to destroy the Jewish State of Israel. Besides that, Iran has a history of failing to honor agreements regarding its weapons program. Netanyahu then proposed several clearcut steps that the U.S. and international community should take in order to assure that Iran dismantles its nuclear program.

Obama's claim that Netanyahu did not present any present danger to Israel and the world! Even if this is not new information, it is still TRUE information. I reject Him. Take this opportunity to accept Him as source that is always true and reliable –the Bible. The Bible is the infallible Word of God. It is deep enough to spend a lifetime studying, but simple enough for a child to grasp the Gospel of Salvation.

In the Bible, God plainly and repeatedly instructs us as to how we should live our lives. Regarding the nation Israel, God has promised the land to children of Israel forever (Gen. 12:7, 13:15, Num. 34:1-12). He has also promised to bless those who bless Israel and to curse him who curses Israel (Gen. 12:7). No need for higher-level textual interpretation here, God

As Christians, we need to support Israel. But, Tuesday March 3? If not, you ultimately, we do not need to fear that Iran, or any other power, will destroy Israel. God has given us unedited at Unitedpolitics.com. the playbook of history in advance in prophesies In his speech, Netanyahu thanked the Obama throughout both the New and Old Testaments. The New Holy City will come down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her Husband, Jesus (Rev. 21:1-2).

We know how the game ends, your decision is simply whether you want to be on the winning side

Most importantly, you must decide what you are from the main point -that a nuclear Iran is a real and your life that will have eternal consequences. You cannot claim neutrality. To not choose Jesus is to am in no way a political expert, but I have one news your Lord and Savior. Do not delay, because none of us know how much more time we have this side of eternity. SENIOR HAPPENINGS

FYI: TIPS FOR STAYING HEALTHY IN YOUR 70S, 80S, 90S...

Aging can be defined as: "progressive changes related to the passing of time." While physiological changes that occur with age may prevent life in your 70s, 80s and beyond from being what it was in your younger years, there's a lot you can do to improve your health and longevity and reduce your risk for physical and mental disability as you get older.

Research shows that you're likely to live an average of about 10 years longer than your parents and not only that, but you're likely to live healthier longer too. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, 40.4 million Americans (about 13 percent) were 65 years of age or older in 2010 and by the year 2030, almost 20 percent of the total U.S. population will be 65+. So how do you give yourself the best possible chance for a long, healthy life? Although you aren't able to control every factor that affects health as you age, many are in your hands. Some keys to living a long, healthy life include:

Make healthful lifestyle choices—don't smoke, eat right, practice good hygiene, and reduce stress

Have a positive outlook

Stay as active as possible—mentally and physically

Take safety precautions

See your health care provider regularly and follow his or her recommendations for screening and preventative measures

One of the most important things you can do to stay healthy in your golden years is to maintain your sense of purpose by staying connected to people and things that matter to you. However, this isn't always easy—especially in a society that all-too-often views older people as a burden.

Visit your local senior center. Spend time with at least one person—a family member, friend or neighbor—every day. Volunteer in your community, attend a local event, join a club or take up a new hobby.

"We are thrilled by the success of Hillsides Uncorked! and I would like to thank all of those people involved who helped make it so successful," said Joseph M. "This is our biggest fundraiser of the year, and the funds raised will go a long way to create lasting change in the lives of the almost 9,000 children and families that Hillsides serves."

Mow high to encourage deep roots flooding and watering bans. What is a gardener to that are more drought tolerant and pest resistant. do? Become a water-wise gardener.

Water wise is not just about growing drought tolerant plants or eliminating plantings. It is a holistic approach to managing water to avoid flooding that overwhelms sewer systems, improper watering that wastes water, and poor landscape designs that generate too much work and require too many resources.

Make this the season that you incorporate a few waterwise habits into your gardening. You'll find it is good for your garden, the environment and your pocketbook. Start with one or more of these strategies this year.

Select the right plant for the growing conditions. Plants that thrive in normal growing conditions for your area will be healthier, require less care and that require less water once established.

- Keep water out of the storm sewers and in the garden instead. Prevent flooding while improving your garden. Adding several inches of compost to the top 8 to 12 inches of soil increases the soil's ability to absorb and retain water. This means less runoff into the storm sewers and less frequent

Use plants to prevent runoff and conserve water. Plant trees, shrubs, and groundcovers to slow the flow of rainwater, increase the amount of water that stays in your landscape for your plants, and to filter water before it enters the groundwater. Install one or more rain gardens to intercept surface water runoff for use by rain garden plants and to help recharge the groundwater.

Provide plants with a healthy diet. Use a slow release non-leaching organic nitrogen fertilizer like Milorganite (milorganite.com). You'll encourage slow steady growth, so your plants will require less water and be less prone to insect and disease problems. Plus, the slow release nitrogen encourages healthy growth and does not prevent flowering and fruiting.

- Water wisely. Water plants thoroughly and only when needed. Water the soil, not the plant, using a watering wand, drip irrigation or a soaker hose so less water is lost to evaporation. Water early in the morning whenever possible to reduce water loss during the heat of the day and diseases caused by wet foliage at night.

Too much or not enough water and never when or aerate and spread a thin layer of compost over Allow lawns to go dormant during hot dry weather. If irrigating, water thoroughly when needed, that's when your footprints remain in the lawn.

Section B

Conserve water and reduce time and money spent on plant care. Mulch the soil around trees, shrubs and other plants with several inches of woodchips, shredded leaves, evergreen needles or other organic material. Mulching reduces watering frequency, prevents soil compaction from heavy rainfall thus increasing water absorption. It also adds organic matter to the soil as it decomposes.

- Repair leaking faucets, fittings and garden hoses. A slow leak of one drip per second can waste up to nine gallons of water per day.

Look for and use wasted water. Collect the "warming water" typically wasted when preparing need less water. Look for drought tolerant plants baths and showers. Use a five-gallon bucket to collect this fresh water and use it for your containers and gardens. Collect water from your dehumidifier and window air conditioners for use on flowering plants. Do not, however, use this water if environmentally harmful solvents have been used to clean this equipment.

- Check with your local municipality if you are considering using gray water. Once you wash clothes, dishes or yourself, water is classed as gray water and most municipalities have guidelines or regulations related to its use.

Harvest rainwater if your municipality allows. The ancient technique of capturing rainwater in jugs, barrels and cisterns has made a comeback. Collecting rain when it is plentiful and storing it until it is needed is one way to manage water for the landscape. But first check local regulations before installing a rain harvesting system. Several states have banned rain harvesting, while others offer rebates or rain barrels at a discount to gardeners.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

A GOOD CAUSE FOR BIG PAWS

If you are a regular reader of this column, you have probably read previous articles about Animazonia Wildlife Foundation, and you'll most likely be interested in this update on what's happening at their sanctuary lately. For those of you who are new to Animazonia, it is a non-profit organization that provides a permanent home for big cats rescued from threatening conditions in captivity or displaced from the wild. They offer educational programs to build public understanding of big cats and their natural place in our world.

I first found out about Animazonia five years ago, while shopping at one of their benefit yard sales here in town and I was immediately interested in learning more about what they do and how I could help out. I visited their sanctuary in Riverside, CA soon after that sale, where I met two big cats living there at the time; Magic, a gorgeous Asian black leopard and Saba, an enormous African lioness, both of whom enjoyed the luxury of living their lives out in a beautiful setting with loving, attentive caretakers.

Today, Animazonia is home to two wild-born California mountain lions, Olive and Leno. They were discovered at three months of age, orphaned and abandoned under a car in Burbank, malnourished and riddled with parasites. Due to their young age and lack of hunting skills, local wildlife experts agreed that the cubs could not survive if released back into the wild. After rehabilitation by California Wildlife Center and two years at ZooToYou in central California, Olive and Leno found their permanent home with Animazonia in 2014.

Much work must be done to help wild cats habituate in captivity, and I was fortunate enough to catch up with Olive and Leno's trainer, Kristi Slane, who shared lots of exciting news about how the two cats are getting along in their new home. Kristi, a 10-year veteran of animal training, worked for the County of Riverside as an animal behaviorist before volunteering at Animazonia. With a big heart for helping big cats, Kristi is dedicated to teaching Olive and Leno new skills designed to make their lives in captivity fuller, happier and healthier.

First among the many things that Olive and Leno are learning during their sessions with Kristi, is the ability to trust humans and interact to the extent necessary to keep them in good health. To accomplish this goal, Kristi uses a technique called target training.

For this, she uses a stick with a ball tethered to the tip, which she invites the cat to touch with it's nose. Each time the cat responds positively by nosing the ball, Kristi rewards the cat with a click or a treat. This technique has proven to be successful in teaching the cats a variety of skills, including trust of people and willingness to perform tasks necessary for their livelihood.

The basic skills being taught to Olive and Leno are extremely important to their survival in captivity. For example, the cats need to be willing to do such things as go into a transport crate when necessary, whether it be to take a trip to the vet, or in the case of an emergency, to be relocated for their safety. Kristi is also teaching them to accept a simulated syringe, so that if/when it is necessary to give them medication, they will be familiar with enough with the process to take the syringe on command. While much of the training is meant to enhance the cats' physical health, the stimulating games", which they seem to truly enjoy, benefit their mental health as well. Overall, the results are positive and helpful in assuring a happy, healthy lifestyle for those two beautiful beasts.

Within the next month or so, Animazonia plans to launch a "Who's Your Daddy?" campaign on their Facebook page. The purpose of the campaign is to raise funds for Olive and Leno's DNA testing, to be used in verifying their relationship to the adult males being tracked in the Santa Monica Mountains and Verdugo Hills area. If they can find Olive and Leno's father, it would not only be helpful in caring for their own health, but could also provide valuable DNA data on the condition of the cats in the wild, how far they travel, which routes they use, etc. The results will be posted on Father's Day, on the Animazonia Facebook page. This is a fun way for everyone to support Animazonia, by simply "liking" them on Facebook, and participating in this unique Father's Day

I want to thank Olive and Leno's trainer, Kristi Slane for taking the time to chat with me about the exciting progress the cats are making, and many thanks to all of the good folks at Animazonia for their dedication on behalf of the animals. Maintaining their sanctuary and caring for the animals requires a lot of hard work and funding. They couldn't do it without the support of people like you and me doing what we can to help carry out the mission. For more information on how you can support the efforts of Animazonia Wildlife Foundation, go to HYPERLINK "http://www.animazonia. com/"www.animazonia.com.

Also, check out Animazonia's Rags to Riches yard sale to be held at 206 Stedman Place in Monrovia, Saturday, March 7 from 8am-4pm. I guarantee you will find all kinds of great treasures, as I always do at their sales, and I'll bet you'll get hooked on their organization immediately, just as I did!

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: NIGHT TERRORS OF 1927

By Sean Kayden

Angeles snyth-pop band, Night Terrors of 1927, formulate an interesting Blake (guitarist) was a member of the successful indie rock band Rilo Kiley and The Elected. Jarrod Gorbel (vocals) was the singer of the The Honorary Title, an indie rock act in the 2000s. The two guys met in 2010 through mutual friends with no intentions in creating a band. About a year later, they started getting together casually to work on songs that fell out of their comfort zone. It was clear that both guys were trying to discover what they wanted out of music. After being musicians for well over a decade with other acts, they still weren't entirely fulfilled emotionally or artistically. The creative juices started kicking in and in 2013 they released their first single, "Watch The World Go Dark," online under the mysterious moniker Night Terrors of 1927. With much potential and praise from numerous publications, Atlantic Records quickly signed them. They released their debut EP, Guilty Pleas in November 2013 and went on tour to support that album. Last September, they released four-track EP, Anything to Anyone, which continued their anthem driven ways. Those songs on the EP carried over to the new 11-track compilation known as Everything's Coming Up Roses. The Night Terrors of 1927 debut LP is bursting with nostalgia, catharsis, and beauty in so many ways.

"Dust and Bones," which was found on their 2013 EP opens the record in a familiar way for previous fans. With Gorbel's huge, larger-than-life vocals present and Sennett's masterful snyth work, "Dust and Bones" feels just as great it did over a year ago. Brand new song, "Running in Place," hits the floor running. It features Gorbel singing in a slightly darker manner. The song is packed with oomph and showcases background harmonies to really kick the chorus into high gear. Night Terrors of 1927 perform songs like everything is on the line at all times. There's so much gusto and glory found within their material that doesn't feel like a retread of other musicians. "Perfect Day" slides in with a milder tempo, but still keeps the listener's head bobbing back and forth. The combination of Gorbel's power vocals and Sennett's glossy guitar contribution Grade: 8.9 out of 10 pushes this gem into a whole new category for Night Terrors of 1927. "When You Were Mine (ft. Tegan Honor," "Shine," "Always Take You Back"

The duo comprising the & Sara)" is the band's gloriously epic single. Gorbel croons along with Tegan & Sara about the likes of a relationship on the verge of being lost forever. The dynamic contrast of the male/female voices works wonders for this superbly indie-synth jam.

Just when you think you have this band figured out, they throw you a curve ball with "Novocaine," a gentle tune that displays Gorbal's earnest lyrical side. "It Would Be An Honor" starts off with rapid piano keys, which quickly unravel into sounding like something from The Killers' Hot Fuss era. Frankly, if I had to compare Night Terrors of 1927 tone it would fall in the hybrid of The Killers, M83, and AFI. While the amalgamation of modern rock with the pinnacle of 80s pop may be the most accurate depiction.

Three of the final four songs appear on the band's previous EP, but they are still arguably the best songs Night Terrors of 1927 have produced. "Always Be One" provides the finest chorus of all their songs. Gorbel's sings with a significant amount of vitality and power. Sennett drives the song with dazzling beats that oscillates in volume. "Shine" brings down the tempo once again, yet are these guys even capable of making a false move? Gorbel expresses he "doesn't want to be a gambler all his life," but the gamble he's making with this band is perhaps his finest wager yet. This is easily the freshest sounding band in years occupying the territory of indie-pop. There appears to be an abundance of compassion and spirit embedded within the duo's music. The labor of their efforts is clearly shown encompassing an 11-track LP full of musical layers, relatable lyrics, and a vibe unrivalled in the genre. The spirited intensity that is established is worth hearing for any and all individual listeners.

FUTURE CRIMES: EVERYTHING IS CONNECTED, EVERYONE IS VULNERABLE AND WHAT WE CAN DO ABOUT IT by Marc Goodman

One of the world's leading authorities on global security, Marc Goodman takes readers deep into the digital underground to expose the alarming ways criminals, corporations, and even countries are using new and emerging technologies against you—and how this makes everyone more vulnerable than ever imagined. Technological advances have benefited our world in immeasurable ways, but there is an ominous flip side: our technology can be turned against us. Hackers can activate baby monitors to spy on families, thieves are analyzing social media posts to plot home invasions, and stalkers are exploiting the GPS on smart phones to track their victims' every move. We all know today's criminals can steal identities, drain online bank accounts, and wipe out computer servers, but that's just the

To date, no computer has been created that could not be hacked—a sobering fact given our radical dependence on these machines for everything from our nation's power grid to air traffic control to financial services. Yet, as ubiquitous as technology seems today, just over the horizon is a tidal wave of scientific progress that will leave our heads spinning. If today's Internet is the size of a golf ball, tomorrow's will be the size of the sun. Welcome to the Internet of Things, a living, breathing, global information grid where every physical object will be online. But with greater connections come greater risks. Implantable medical devices such as pacemakers can be hacked to deliver a lethal joit of electricity and a car's brakes can be disabled at high speed from miles away. Meanwhile, 3-D printers can produce AK-47s, bioterrorists can download the recipe for Spanish flu, and cartels are using fleets of drones to ferry drugs across borders.

With explosive insights based upon a career in law enforcement and counterterrorism, Marc Goodman takes readers on a vivid journey through the darkest recesses of the Internet. Reading like science fiction, but based in science fact, Future Crimes explores how bad actors are primed to hijack the technologies of tomorrow, including robotics, synthetic biology, nanotechnology, virtual reality, and artificial intelligence. These fields hold the power to create a world of unprecedented abundance and prosperity. But the technological bedrock upon which we are building our common future is deeply unstable and, like a house of cards, can come crashing down at any mome. Future Crimes provides a mind-blowing glimpse into the dark side of technological innovation and the unintended consequences of our connected world. Goodman offers a way out with clear steps we must take to survive the progress unfolding before us. Provocative, thrilling, and ultimately empowering, Future Crimes will serve as an urgent call to action that shows how we can take back control over our own devices and harness technology's tremendous power for the betterment of humanity—before it's too late.

THE ABSOLUTELY TRUE DIARY OF A PART-TIME INDIAN by Sherman Alexie

Bestselling author Sherman Alexie tells the story of Junior, a budding cartoonist growing up on the Spokane Indian Reservation. Determined to take his future into his own hands, Junior leaves his troubled school on the rez to attend an all-white farm town high school where the only other Indian is the school mascot. Heartbreaking, funny, and beautifully written, The Absolutely True Diary of a Part-Time Indian, which is based on the author's own experiences, coupled with poignant drawings by Ellen Forney that reflect the character's art, chronicles the contemporary adolescence of one Native American boy as he attempts to break away from the life he was destined

THE NEW NEWS 2015

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

It has been a few months since I last checked in with readers of the Mountain Views News. My silence is a reflection of just how much we've had going on at the Playhouse. From the sold-out success of our holiday show A Little House Christmas (set to return to SMP in 2016) to our critical success with A Walk in the Woods (our second Ovation Recommended show!) And now SMP's first Repertory! Einstein is a Dummy, opening Friday, May 6, is the second play in our Field Trip Series for local schools which we began last year with Battledrum and Putting it Together, opening Friday, May 13, is a gift to our music-loving patrons which we've added to the season after seeing this talented cast perform the revue earlier in the year at a different theater.

These two offerings underscore what we are delighted with Einstein, a charming and fun musical about a young Albert Einstein negotiating the vicissitudes of early adolescence while formulating the groundbreaking theories that would change the world and Putting it Together, with the rich music of Stephen Sondheim, will please adults who enjoy the sophisticated and wry point of view of Sondheim's music. These two shows celebrate two American geniuses (and before I get mail - Einstein became an American and lived out his life here - who wouldn't want to claim him!) who have made profound changes to their respective fields. I sincerely hope that the adults who are drawn to Putting it Together will also come back to hear the inventive songs in Einstein is a Dummy written by Deborah Wicks

La Puma and Karen Zacarias and that families will come back - with their children - to hear Sondheim's masterful way with songs.

A Repertory is a daunting undertaking involving so many artists and so much coordination. I am always struck by how many people it takes to put on a show and how seriously everyone takes their role in the process. I remember thinking that I would love to share with our audiences how amazing it was at our production meeting for Einstein that there were fourteen! people discussing all the elements that would come together in this production from lighting to sound to our first ever use of video projections to the set to the costumes to the props all of which need to be conceived, and built, and installed, and then work in tandem seamlessly to support the work that the actors are doing on stage. trying to do here at the Playhouse. They appeal to Talk about it taking a village.... And then we did it two different groups of our patrons – families will be again for the other show! My thanks to everyone who worked so tirelessly to make this Repertory a success, but especially to the two producers who worked with us on this crazy idea - Amanda Weier on Einstein and Alison Eliel Kalmus on Putting it Together - without these two wonderful women neither show would have succeeded as well as they

> As always we do this for you - our SMP family whose support and loyalty mean so much to us and for whom we hope we bring pleasure and joy and moving experiences in the theater. Please let me know how you think we are doing. Reach me at ArtisticDirector@SierraMadrePlayhouse.org

LIFE 'NOT AS WE KNOW IT' POSSIBLE ON SATURN'S MOON TITAN

A new type of methane-based, oxygen-free life form that could metabolize and reproduce similar to life on Earth has been modeled by a team of Cornell University researchers.

Taking a simultaneously imaginative and rigidly scientific view, chemical engineers and astronomers offer a template for life that could thrive in a harsh, cold world—specifically Titan, the giant moon of Saturn. A planetary body awash with seas not of water, but of liquid methane, Titan could harbor methane-based, oxygen-free cells.

Their theorized cell membrane, composed of small organic nitrogen compounds and capable of functioning in liquid methane temperatures of 292 degrees below zero, is published in Science Advances, Feb. 27. The work is led by chemical molecular dynamics expert Paulette Clancy and first author James Stevenson, a graduate student in chemical engineering. The paper's co-author is Jonathan Lunine, director for Cornell's Center for Radiophysics and Space Research.

Lunine is an expert on Saturn's moons and an interdisciplinary scientist on the Cassini-Huygens mission that discovered methane-ethane seas on Titan. Intrigued by the possibilities of methane-based life on Titan, and armed with a grant from the Templeton Foundation to study non-aqueous life, Lunine sought assistance about a year ago from Cornell faculty with expertise in chemical modeling. Clancy offered to help.

"We're not biologists, and we're not astronomers, but we had the right tools," Clancy said. "Perhaps it helped, because we didn't come in with any preconceptions about what should be in a membrane and what shouldn't. We just worked with the compounds that we knew were there and asked, 'If this was your palette, what can you make out of that?""

On Earth, life is based on the phospholipid bilayer membrane, the strong, permeable, water-based vesicle that houses the organic matter of every cell. A vesicle made from such a membrane is called a liposome. Thus, many astronomers seek extraterrestrial life in what's called the circumstellar habitable zone, the narrow band around a star in which liquid water could exist. But what if cells weren't based on water, but on methane, which has a much lower freezing point?

The engineers named their theorized cell membrane an "azotosome," "azote" being the French word for nitrogen. "Liposome" comes from the Greek "lipos" and "soma" to mean "lipid body"; by analogy,

"azotosome" means "nitrogen body."

The azotosome is made from nitrogen, carbon and hydrogen molecules known to exist in the cryogenic seas of Titan, but shows the same stability and flexibility that Earth's analogous liposome does. This came as a surprise to chemists like Clancy and Stevenson, who had never thought about the mechanics of cell stability before—they usually study semiconductors, not cells.

The engineers employed a molecular dynamics method that screened for candidate compounds from methane for self-assembly into membrane-like structures. The most promising compound they found is an acrylonitrile azotosome, which showed good stability, a strong barrier to decomposition, and a flexibility similar to that of phospholipid membranes on Earth.

Clancy said the next step is to try and demonstrate how these cells would behave in the methane environment—what might be the analogue to reproduction and metabolism in oxygen-free, methans based calls.

methane-based cells.

Lunine looks forward to the long-term prospect of testing these ideas on Titan itself, as he put it, by "someday sending a probe to float on the seas of this amazing moon and directly sampling the organics."

Stevenson said he was in part inspired by science fiction writer Isaac Asimov, who wrote about the concept of non-water-based life in a 1962 essay, "Not as We Know It."

Said Stevenson: "Ours is the first concrete blueprint of life not as we know it."

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

BORN WITH A SCREWDRIVER IN MY HAND

Some people understand compliments and take them as they come. Other people, like myself, wouldn't know a compliment if it hit them in the face like a pie.

For a long time I had been under the impression my wife was giving me compliments. It takes a husband a long time to understand his wife and by the time he understands her, she has morphed into the next level of womanhood. The man who thinks he knows his wife needs a psychiatrist, preferably a woman psychiatrist.

For a number of years my wife said to me, which I thought was a compliment, "You must've been born with a screwdriver in your hand."

I never thought of myself as a handyman, but these kinds of compliments gave me a little bit of confidence in my incompetence. Nothing is more dangerous than confident incompetence.

I try to do a little bit of work around the house, like fixing things and improve things. However, every time I start to fix something, something happens to make it worse.

Last week, for instance, the front door latch came loose. Some screws had come loose and it was to the point that you could not shut the door. Well, being the bungling handyman that I am, I grabbed the nearest screwdriver I could find and tried to screw the screws back into the door and fix the problem. Usually, the first screwdriver I pick up does not fit the screw I am trying to screw in. I have come to discover that there is a screwdriver for every conceivable screw. Who knew?

I memorized a phrase to help me along that line; Lefty Loosey, Righty Tighty. Every time I use that phrase I need to think it through a little bit to understand or at least try to understand what it means. If I turn the screwdriver left, I am loosening it and if I turn it right, I am tightening it. What that means I have no idea.

I grabbed my screwdriver firmly in my right hand and used my left hand to guide it to the screw that needed to be tightened. However, the more I turned it to the right the looser it became. It is not supposed to work that way. Either, I do not know my right from my left or somebody has messed up this project. Thank goodness, there was no mirror handy.

Just as I was about ready to rip the door from its hinges and throw it across the street the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage appeared and said, "Another proof that you were born with a screwdriver in your hand."

At the time, I was not in any frame of mind whatsoever to receive a compliment.

She simply said to me, "May I have the screwdriver and would you go in and see if there's any coffee left in the coffee pot?"

Since I had come to the end of my rope, I handed her the screwdriver and headed for the kitchen mumbling incoherently. By the time I got to the kitchen, I turned around and there she was following me.

"What about the door?" I said in a rather grumpy tone.

"Oh," she said rather cheerfully, "it's fixed."

Several other projects I started ended up the same way. My wife would cheerfully come to me and say, "You must've been born with a screwdriver in your hand." Then she would laugh most heartily and I would smile not quite getting what she was saying.

One Christmas the truth of this really hit home. I was opening a Christmas present from someone named "Guess Who" and discovered a brandnew screwdriver with my name engraved on the handle. The note inside the card said, "Here's a screwdriver to help you in all the things you screw up."

I must confess it took several days for me to process this Christmas gift. Then, just before New Year's, the whole thing unfolded for me.

Whenever my wife says, "You must've been born with a screwdriver in your hand," she is not complimenting me as I originally thought, but rather in that secret code that all wives know was saying that I was a major screwup.

At first, I was a little upset by this. To think that my wife thought I was a screwup was a very hard to swallow. She did not say I was a screwup, but she laid all the groundwork for me to come to that awesome conclusion.

To know what you can do is important, but to know what you cannot do is more important. Every time I look at the screwdriver, I realize there are a whole lot of things that I cannot do. I need to focus on what I can do. That is the message of the screwdriver.

We have now come to a basic understanding in our house that when there is ever a project that needs fixing I will always look at my wife and say, "Would you like to borrow my screwdriver?"

I think the apostle Paul understood this when he wrote, "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (1 Corinthians 10:12).

I think the biggest compliment I could ever receive or give, for that matter, is what Paul is implying here. Simply put; think before you fall.

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed

by Luther Tsinoglou

DON'T TRY THIS AT HOME

When you hear that someone managed to sell a home without representation, it's likely that the sale was to a family member, close friend, or a tenant who was already renting and living there. These exceptional cases are not the norm, and there are powerful reasons why it is so difficult to make a sale

The biggest roadblock is that For Sale By Owners (FSBOs) aren't included in the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) that licensed agents and organizations use. A sign in the yard and an ad in the newspaper are no match for the widespread exposure gained from a listing visible on the MLS. Since the FSBO has no listing agreement providing for a sales commission, many agents won't show these homes with no promise of compensation. Again, this greatly reduces the number of potential buyers exposed to the offering, not to mention the fact that buyers who do express interest will not have been screened by a professional to determine their qualifications.

Perhaps the most hazardous aspect of selling "by owner" is the potential for legal oversights and complications. Real estate transactions are loaded with potential liability for unrepresented and unwitting sellers. One overlooked form or improper disclosure could generate an expensive lawsuit. Just as you wouldn't enter the courtroom without an attorney, you shouldn't sell your home without professional representation.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"If Scott Walker sees 100,000 teachers and firefighters as his enemies, maybe it's time we take a closer look at his friends. - Sen. Elizabeth Warren (D-MA)

Methinks Greg Welborn might have taken a bit too uncritically the remarks Sen. Marco Rubio (R-FL) at last week's Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC). In his column last week, Greg warns that Iran and ISIS are "drawn from the same cloth". In his speech to CPAC, Sen. Rubio contended that although we could defeat ISIS militarily, President Obama chooses not to because he "doesn't want to upset Iran."

The problem with that argument is that Iran would like to see ISIS defeated at least as much as we would. Iran has publicly urged us to take a more active role in the fight, sent 2,000 troops in support of Iraq against ISIS last month and helped defend Baghdad.

Sectarianism tends to make a mess of things. There's Shiite Muslim Iran and Iraq against Sunni Muslim ISIS. President Assad of Syria is of the Shiite Alawite sect, so ISIS is after his neck, too - and we're in the position of choosing between the lesser of the monsters. There's no comparing the masses of Shiite Muslims slaughtered by Sunni Muslim ISIS to the number of Christian victims we hear about on the news.

That bloodthirsty, apocalyptic vision of ISIS is based in the Wahhabi sect of Sunni Islam, which inspired Al Qaeda before it. But the countries that finance the madrassas that instill Wahhabism (and that enforce the most draconian Sharia law) are those with which Big Oil makes its deals, like Saudi Arabia and the UAE - so you won't hear unkind words spoken against them at CPAC.

Sen. Rubio is a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations and the Select Committee on Intelligence. He should know better.

I think Israeli P.M. Benjamin Netanyahu does know better, but also knows about playing

His remarks brought to mind the line about how someone saying they remember what happened at Woodstock shows they weren't really there. The P.M. warns of the dangers of the deal being worked out at the 7-nation (U.S., Russia, China, the U.K., France, Germany and Iran) nuclear talks in Geneva, but those involved say the information publicly out there is false; that anyone claiming to know what's going on really hasn't a clue.

P.M. Netanyahu, like Greg and Sen. Rubio, tries to conflate Iran, a nation with a diverse population of 80 million whose history goes back millennia and which does hold elections, with ISIS, a group numbering in the tens of thousands, which has been around in its current form since 2013 and considers democracy "deviant".

There's a push to have us forcefully state our demands, and then if Iran refuses and walks away, to accept that "no deal is better than a bad deal". That approach was tried under President George W. Bush. He insisted on a "zero-enrichment" condition, and as a result the 164 centrifuges Iran had in 2003 number some 19,000 today.

Sen. Rubio wasn't the only speaker talking foreign policy at CPAC. When asked how he'd handle ISIS, Gov. Scott Walker (R-WI) compared it to union-busting; "If I can take on 100,000 protestors, I can do the same across the world." It was this remark that brought the tweet from Sen. Warren quoted above. It was even too much for former Texas Gov. Rick Perry (R): "These are Americans. You are talking about, in the case of ISIS, people who are . . . the face of evil.

To try to make the relationship between them and the unions is inappropriate."

Gov. Walker explained the connection to foreign policy; that as a result of President Reagan's firing of air traffic control union members in 1981, "years later, documents released by the Soviet Union" showed "it sent a message" that "we weren't to be messed with." Asked about Walker's claim, Jack Matlock, ambassador to the Soviet Union under Reagan, calls it 'utter nonsense . . . there's no evidence of that whatever.'

Donald Trump explained his approach to ISIS would be to "just hit 'em really hard." As for Iran, "you can make the right deal if you have the right negotiator."

Delivering CPAC's opening remarks; Sarah Palin offered probably the most important reminder regarding our foreign policy - about how those long deployments in Iraq and Afghanistan have led to more problems in our vets with PTSD, suicides, increased divorce rates, unemployment, etc. She blames the Obama Administration.

In his blog commenting on Palin's remarks, Bob Cesca listed a number of bills (HR 466 Wounded Veteran Job Security Act, HR 1168 Veterans Retraining Act, HR 1171 Homeless Veterans Reintegration Program, HR 1293 Disabled Veterans Home Improvement and Structural Alteration Grant) which were passed when Democrats controlled the House, but later killed by Republican-led filibusters in the Senate.

Foreign policy wasn't the only topic at CPAC. Former HP exec Carly Fiorina called the idea of a Republican "War on Women" "a lie" – then suggested women wouldn't be all that concerned with the further restrictions on reproductive health access she'd support. One of the most popular speakers was Phil Robertson of "Duck Dynasty", who shared with attendees his thoughts on sexually transmitted diseases ("Jesus is the only thing between you and

In the meantime, Congress finally passed a clean funding bill for the Department of Homeland Security, after weeks of Republicans holding it hostage. They figured they had to do something, especially with that Netanyahu appearance not working out as they'd hoped. According to an NBC / WSJ poll, Americans by a 48% to 30% margin felt House Speaker John Boehner (R-OH) blew it by not working with the White House on the visit. While according to Gallup, during the time the Prime Minister was over here in the States, approval for President Obama shot up by five points.

Making Sense by MICHAEL Reagan DO CITIZENS HAVE A LOBBY?

I'm beginning the sympathize more and more with the average man who thinks the system is rigged against him.

The current unemployment rate in California, where I live, is 5.4 percent. This is almost a full percentage point higher than the unemployment rate for the nation as a whole. So you can imagine how the average unemployed Californian feels when he reads that the state Employment Development Department in Sac-ramento has hired citizens of India to process Golden State unemployment claims.

According to News10, "with the exception of two managers, everyone inside the office is from outside of the U.S. They are employed by Deloitte, a major U.S. IT company hired by the state to create and man-age its Unemployment Insurance Modernization project. The mostly Indian nationals are allowed to work here under a visa program called H-1B."

Computerworld reports "Information technology workers at Southern California Edison (SCE) are being laid off and replaced by workers from India. Some employees are training the H- 1B visa holding re-placements, and many have already lost their jobs."

That's really pouring salt in the wound. First the company makes you train the foreign workers replacing you then, after you're fired, more foreign workers process your unemployment claim.

It's no wonder that millions of unemployed Americans have simply given up and stopped looking for a job.

In these two instances STEM workers (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) have been displaced by H-1B visa holders. By law these visa holders are only supposed to be used to fill jobs that can't be filled by US citizens. Instead in many instances they replace US citizens. In reality the only law that influences H–1B visa holders is the economic law of supply and demand.

The more of these workers US companies can import, the lower the wage scale for STEM workers will be. That's why News10 points out tech companies spent $14 million in 2013 lobbying Congress for more low–paid foreign workers.

Microsoft is laying off 20,000 employees, yet Bill Gates demands Congress increase the number of STEM workers allowed to come to the US. Even the Prime Minister of India gets into the act. PM Naren-dra Modi asked President Obama during his trip to India to "loosen the restrictions on the H-1B program."

Maybe that's why Sen. Jeff Sessions (R-AL) points out that 75 percent of the US citizens with STEM degrees aren't working in STEM jobs.

The average American competing against lower-priced imported labor doesn't have anyone lobbying for him. And unfortunately taking care of your citizens first and dealing fairly with domestic workers doesn't seem to be a priority with Congress or business.
